Gyeonggi-do

From the Hwaseong Fortress in Suwon, the greatest fortress of the Joseon period recognized as UNESCO's World Culture Heritage, all the way to Yeosu that showcases magnificent scenery, reminding one of the grandeur of an Oriental painting. Let's take an unconventional trip and experience the architecture and culture of Joseon. You may not be able to close your mouth once you are overwhelmed by its sheer scale and stylishness.

Suwon Hwaseong Fortress

Hwaseong Fortress in Suwon is regarded as the pinnacle of Korea's fortress culture, and was designated as UNESCO's World Culture Heritage. Hwaseong Fortress is sometimes called the 'Leaf Fortress', as the curvy walls resemble a leaf when seen from above. This is symbolical of King Jeongjo's love for the people, who declared 'Do not inconvenience the people. Bend and straighten the fortress three times if you must,' a measure taken to minimize the impact on the livelihood of people living near the path of the fortress.

Different events are performed during different seasons of the year and time of day, and characters from the Joseon period that seem to have traveled through time to the present day put on an unforgettable show. Visitors can enjoy housing sites that reenact the lives of our ancestors, traditional experiences, amusement parks, and also use the marketplace to satisfy the hunger from all the excitement.

You won't be able to control yourself from dancing.

Jung-Wondang

The second Intangible Cultural Asset designated by Chungcheongbuk-do is 'liquor'? Korea's renowned traditional wine 'Cheongmyeongju' is the liquor in question, the brewing method of which was recorded in 'Hyangjeonrok', a document belonging to the Gimhae Kim clan based in Cheongju, Chungcheongbuk-do, and recognized as sustaining the taste and legacy of Joseon. Cheongmyeongju is prestigious liquor, made from native ingredients and brewed through 100 days of fermentation and maturing. Gyeonggi-do

Is it a movie, or is it a piece of modern art? Let's go and visit the site where the video was filmed, where each scene was so artistic it is hard to imagine this was a music video and stage performance. This was filmed in Korea? We have BTS to thank for allowing us to discover such sites and the glorious beauty of Korea. Let's head for Gyeonggi-do, today!

Ueumdo Island

The final scene of the <Spring Day> music video, the lonely but charming spectacle, was filmed in Ueumdo Island, Hwaseong. The contrast between the vast horizon and the sole tree created a truly sentimental scene. Unfortunately the tree is no longer there due to land development, but the vast plains and the field of reeds swaying in the wind still retain the atmosphere and romanticism of the video.

The site that reproduces the streets and residential areas from the time of the Three Kingdoms to the Joseon period is the biggest open filming location in Korea, and a center of Hallyu tourism where historical mini-series such as <Jumong>, <Lee San, Wind the of Palace>, and <The Moon Embracing the Sun> were filmed, as well as the music video of <Daechwita>. Rocksville is the background of the legendary concert, a 'Special Retro Zone' theme zone built inside Everland based on 1960s America. The glamorous lights, glittering rides and old cars perfectly recreate the past. You will be amazed to find out that Everland housed such an exotic zone within in its premises.

The number one response among the ARMYs from 137 countries that were polled was the BTS Bus Station in Hyangho Beach, Jumunjin, where the cover of the <You Never Walk Alone> album was shot! The bus station on the cover was a temporary structure built for the photo shoot and was later removed, but was restored by Gangneung-si due to popular request and reborn as an attractive tourist site for ARMYs around the world.

The site of the church was designed in the shape of a boat to represent the Ark that saved the world. The reason why the architectural style of the East and West was combined is because it was the intent of the Anglican Church that first set foot in Korea to localize with the surroundings.

Murals, sculptures and signboards that retain the times past still remain in various spots, solemnly guarding the true fashion of the genuinely old, rather than being another imitation of retro.
